WINNER
Wesley Moon

When Wesley Moon and his partner purchased their 386-square-foot getaway on Fire Island, he says, "the apartment was simply a white box begging for personality." The designer added interest by applying strips of wood to the walls to mimic paneling and installing a beadboard-clad cabinet to conceal a Murphy bed and television. Judge Benjamin Noriega-Ortiz calls it "happy" and "whimsical," while judge Ellie Cullman praises its "fun, graphic quality."
